PREFACE

For several years the author has been interested in the history of his mother's family. As long as he can remember, it has been claimed that our family were of the same ancestry as "Stonewall" Jackson of Civil War fame. This belief was quickly dispelled after making a trip to Charleston, W.Va., to consult Dr. Roy Bird Cook the foremost historian of "Stonewall" Jackson. An examination of his records disclosed there were no connecting links between "Stonewall's" ancestry and our lineage.

The writer was told that two other members of our family had undertaken to trace the family history, and one of these, Homer Lee Simmons, had compiled considerable materials, and had made a special trip to Washington, D.C., to consult Robert H. Jackson, Associate Justice of the United States Supreme Court. Mr. Simmons died shortly after this interview and it is not known if they arrived at any conclusions. An effort was made to locate Mr. Simmons' work papers and was told they had been lost or destroyed.

The preparation of a history of this character could not be undertaken without the aid of others. This assistance came from the descendants now living, many of them contributing the history for several members of their families, for which the author desires to express his gratitude for their kindness and cooperation. To those who are not descendants, we are especially indebted for their help and contributions, some of whom are:

DR.ROY BIRD COOK, author of "The Family and Early Life of 'Stonewall' Jackson," for his assistance and information supplied concerning Samuel Jackson, "The Iron-Master of Cheat." Following his suggestion, the writer examined the manuscripts compiled by James R. Moreland, who had conducted an extensive study of the history of the Old Iron works on Cheat River and made his findings available to the West Virginia University Library for historical purposes. This led to new channels for further research.

WILLIS G.TETRICK, Clarksburg, W.Va., who made available the private genealogical records compiled by his father.

BART ANDERSON, Director, and MISS DOROTHY LAPP, Secretary of Chester County Historical Society, West Chester, Penna., who gave generously of their time and assistance, and supplied supplementary data from the Society's records for our history.

MARY OGILVIE, Secretary, Department of Records of Philadelphia Yearly Meeting of the Religious Society of Friends, who made a complete search of the early records in her Department, for information concerning Ephraim Jackson's arrival into this country and his early activities in the Society of Friends.

WILLIAM A. MORELAND, for permission to use material taken from his father's unpublished manuscripts in the Library of West Virginia University of the "Old Iron Works on Cheat River." His letter reads: "Dad had infinite patience and derived a great pleasure from his historical research efforts and his reason for placing the fruits of his labor in the Library was to make it available to anyone interested. Please feel free to use any of the material that Dad collected in any beneficial way."

INTRODUCTION

There are many families bearing the name of Jackson, whose ancestors came from England at different periods, but after making a thorough investigation the writer was unable to find any relationship existing, in this country, between Ephraim Jackson, our first ancestor, and other families of the same name. However, no claim is made that such relationship does not exist, since connecting-links may be found by a further search of records in England.

We are unable to trace the line of ascent of our family lineage with any degree of accuracy beyond a limited period, but it may be said with confidence that our branch of the Jacksons is of English nationality or descent. Of our first ancestor, Ephraim Jackson, the first immigrant and head of this family, we have no knowledge of his ancestry. Every possible effort has been made to learn the name of his parents but without success. We know he arrived in this country in December 1684 with Jacob Hall of Macclesfield, Cheshire, England, and after residing here for twenty-five years the record is clear that he returned to Cheshire, England, on what appears to have been an extended visit. These circumstances warrant the conclusion he made the trip to see his parents and other relatives, and perhaps the place of his birth or where he once lived.

The Colony of Pennsylvania was founded by William Penn, a noted minister of the Society of Friends, and was then commonly known as "Penn Woods." William Penn was the son of a wealthy nobleman, and through his father's influence at court, he was able to obtain the king's consent for the establishment of a Quaker Colony in America. Ephraim Jackson, having arrived here two years after the Colony was founded indicates he may have left England to escape persecution and to be free to enjoy religious freedom.

Since our first ancestor settled in the vicinity of Philadelphia and remained there during the rest of his life, most of the research for this history was conducted in the eastern part of Pennsylvania. The search of the records of Chester County Historical Society at West Chester, Penna., produced valuable information of our early ancestry, and this was supplemented from data taken from the records on file in the courthouse of Chester County. Much time was spent at the Pennsylvania Historical Society, Philadelphia, Penna., and a complete examination of the microfilmed records was made at the Friends Historical Library at Swarthmore, Penna. Some work was conducted at the New York Historical Society; the Genealogical Society of the Church of Jesus Christ (Latter Day Saints), Salt Lake City, Utah, and the Los Angeles Public Library, Los Angeles, Calif.

Each family history is intended to be complete in itself. This is deemed advisable even at the expense of the repetition of names and births, in order that each family may be clearly seen without the necessity of referring to the family of their parents to ascertain these particulars.

HOW TO FIND YOURSELF AND YOUR ANCESTORS

Turn to the index page and find your name. Having found your name and page number, turn to that page and you will find your name and identification number in the heading. The identification numbers directly beneath your name are reference numbers to enable you to find your ancestors back to the beginning. For instance, having found your name, the first number at the left beneath your name will refer you to your parents. Turn back to this number and again use the first number at the left beneath your parents' name to find your grandparents. Proceed in this manner until you arrive at the beginning of your first ancestor, Ephraim Jackson.

The search of our ancestors and kin was started with a limited knowledge of our family history. It has taken three years of persistent effort to bring it to a completion. The task was carried on with no expectation of compensation or reward, other than the satisfaction of preserving authenticated facts and details of the lives of our forefathers whose memory we desire to perpetuate. It has been a challenge and there were times when it seemed impossible to extend the history beyond a few generations. However, new clues and leads opened channels for further research of our early ancestry, that made it possible to compile in this volume our family history extending over a period of nearly 300 years.

FIRST AND SECOND GENERATIONS

1-EPHRAIM JACKSON

Our first ancestor to come to this country was EPHRAIM JACKSON, who emigrated from England. The author has made an extensive search of available records and has concluded from circumstantial evidence and other related factors that our first ancestor was the Ephraim Jackson who first settled in Bucks County, Penna., appearing in the Pennsylvania Magazine, Page 231 of Volume 9, under the title "A Partial List of Families Who Resided in Bucks County, Pennsylvania, prior to 1687, with their date of arrival." The following is quoted from this article.

"Jacob Hall of Macclesfield, Cheshire, England, shoemaker and Mary, his wife, arrived in Maryland the 3d of the 12th Mo. 1684, in the 'Friendship', of Liverpool, the Mr. Edmund Croston, and afterwards transported to this river, where his family arrived 28th 3d Mo. 1685. Children, Jacob, born the 8th 12th Mo. 1679, Sarah and Joseph. Servant, Ephraim Jackson, to serve 4 years, and to have meat, drink, washing & lodging, and L6 per annum."

It is certain that Ephraim Jackson returned to Cheshire, England, in 1709 on an extended trip for a visit and did not return until the early part of 1710. Upon his return he produced a certificate of attendance from Newton Monthly Meeting, Cheshire, England, which is recorded in the Providence Monthly Meeting, Chester County, Penna., and reads as follows: "Ephraim Jackson being returned from Great Britain and Produced a Certificate from Newton Monthly Meeting in Cheshire to the satisfaction of this meeting."

The Falls Monthly Meeting, Bucks County, Penna., dated 5-3-1695 minutes contain the following: "Upon request of Ephraim Jackson by Joshua Hoopes and Joseph Kirkbride to have a certificate of his conversation whilst amongst us and of his clearness in relation of marriage, Wherefore it is agreed that Richard Hough and John Palmer do make inquiry concerning the same and account to the next meeting." The next meeting was held, 7-4-1695, and the minutes record the following: "A certificate concerning Ephraim Jackson clearness was Read and Signed, the Friends appointed to make inquiry concerning him, having first reported to us that they find nothing but he is clear."

Ephraim Jackson and Rachel Newlin were married at the Concord Monthly Meeting, 12-10-1695, the marriage ceremony being performed at the meeting held on the same date, immediately following the second reading of their intention of marriage. Rachel Newlin was born at Mountmellick, Ireland, daughter of Nicholas and Elizabeth Newlin, a prominent family who came here from Ireland.

Ephraim Jackson was one of the twelve men selected to make an appraisal of twenty-five yards of land fronting the Delaware River in Chichester Town. The deed bearing the date of the 24th day of Seventh month, 1694.

Ephraim purchased 120 acres of land from Phillip Yarnall, which is recorded in Chester County Deed Book, page 397, the deed bearing the date of the Eight Day of the seventh month, 1696. In 1703 he purchased 228 acres of land in Middletown Township, Chester County, Penna., which is recorded at Harrisburg, Penna., Ref-A2, Page 520, patent by William Penn. (Note: This land is now in Delaware County, Penna.)

There is recorded in the Court of Chester County, Penna., 1681-1697, page 329, "Jeremiah Collett the fifteenth Day of the seventh month Anny Domi-1697. Assigned over the remainder of his sarvant Allixander Mackeenes Time to Ephraim Jackson before Jonathan Heyes, Justice of ye Peace."

"Chester Quarterly Meeting Minutes of 1712 6mo 4 The Committee appointed by the last Q.M., to inspect the Minutes, report they have done so and found few mistakes and have procured Ephraim Jackson to inscribe them into the new book, the Meeting him four pounds for his labour." This has been described to be beautifully and delicately written. Ephraim was well known for his excellent penmanship and many deeds, wills, marriages and legal documents written by him are still in existance.

Ephraim Jackson had received a better education than usual for a person of his day. He held the position of Clerk of Chester Monthly Meeting of Friends, of which he was an exemplary member. He was employed in civil affairs, especially where good penmanship was needed and was a successful farmer and a man of sound business ability. In 1710 he represented Chester County in the Provincial Assembly. He was conscientiously opposed to selling rum to Indians and took a firm stand against this practice, and was one of the active civic-minded citizens who petitioned for a road to be built from Chester to Philadelphia. He was highly esteemed for his integrity, intelligence and accuracy of judgment. In all movements for the good of his community, he gave his warmest sympathies and support. He was repeatedly chosen clerk of the Monthly and Quarterly Meetings of the Society of Friends, and was a representative from Chester County in the Meeting of Ministers and Elders, Philadelphia Yearly Meeting, 1725-1731. He reared seven children to whom he gave advantages of education superior to those usually accorded in his day, and in all family affairs he was a pattern of a Christian gentleman.

4-JOSEPH JACKSON

Born in Edgemont Twp., Delaware Co., Penna. His early life was spent on the farm with his father.

He first married at the Providence Meeting House, 7-18-1722, Hannah Pennell, daughter of Joseph and Alice (Garrett) Pennell. They settled in Londongrove Twp., Chester Co., Penna., after they were married. Joseph requested a certificate for himself and wife to be joynd to New Garden Monthly Meeting, which was approved and issued, 9-7-1722 and turned over to his father to send to him. Hannah died, 6-21-1728, shortly after giving birth to twins. Joseph married again, 2-18-1734, at the New Garden Monthly Meeting, Susanna Miller, born in New Garden Twp., Chester Co., daughter of John and Mary (Ignev) Miller.

He acquired from John Jackson in 1722 a tract of land containing about 200 acres, situated in Londongrove Twp., Chester County, Penna. On June 15, 1733 he purchased from Thomas Cox and wife Mary, 150 acres of land in the same township. Later he bought another tract of land of 50 acres, formerly owned by Richard Bennett, and held under lease another 112 acres adjoining it. He built a Grist-mill about 1730/3 from which he built for himself a substantial business.

In 1742 he built a commodious brick house, consisting of ten rooms, which has become one of the famous historical homes in eastern Pennsylvania. The bricks for building the walls were brought from England. On the north-west end, built of black brick, in the wall is the date 1742 in figures two feet long. The interior division walls are quite substantial, being eighteen inches thick, of solid brick. The east walls of the rooms are in some cases covered with fine hard wood paneling, and cupboards and mantel shelves how very clearly that the carpenter of long ago was not afraid to rub a plane over the seasoned oak and ash. There is not so much as one cut nail in the whole house. The hinges on the doors, instead of being the neat affairs of to-day, are ponderous wrought-iron bars, strong enough to resist the rust and wear of an eternity. The dining-room contains four windows, no two of which are of the same size.

The ownership of this famous home has changed hands many times since it was first built. After the death of Joseph Jackson, his youngest son Samuel inherited it and it was held by him until 1775. Others owners, Lewis Pusey 1775-1852; Daniel Pennington 1852-1871; Thomas and Wm.B. Harvey 1871-1911; Lewis Paschell 1911-1925; James and Rolland Hood 1925-1958. Willis E. Roberts acquired it by purchase October 8, 1958, and it is now (1960) his residence. He has made substantial improvements in the home, but has retained the paneling, fire-places and other original interior construction.

5-NATHANIEL JACKSON

Born in Edgemont Twp., Delaware Co., Penna., 6-17-1701. It is believed that Nathaniel was never married. The only information concerning him appears in the Chester Monthly Meeting records and his father's will. The Monthly Meeting held at Providence, October 30, 1728, minutes briefly states, "Middletown Friends' acquaint this Meeting that Nathaniel Jackson has gone out of the County." He was mentioned in his father's will of September 7, 1732. The last report of him appears in the Chester Monthly Meeting, dated November 25, 1741, which indicates he was living with his mother at the old homestead. His mother was then seriously ill and died a few months later.

In 1895 appeared in the Local News section of a Philadelphia paper the following: "A marriage certificate, preserved for 162 years of the wedding in 1733 of Ephraim Jackson and Mary Register, has been brought to light. A box of old papers, including several patents to land grants by William Penn and his sons, that were preserved with great care by the late John Evans Jackson, have come into possession of his son Joseph M. Jackson of Joanna. Among the most interesting relics is a well preserved marriage certificate of his great-grandfather, Ephraim Jackson, who was joined in holy matrimony in 1733." They were married in the Middletwon Monthly Meeting House.

Ephraim Jackson acquired 138 acres of land, December 28.1735, from William Bostock, in the township of Thornbury, now in Delaware Co., Penna.

He inherited by his father's will, dated September 5, 1760, fifty acres of land, which had formerly been purchased by his father from Richard Bennett, and also had been given the rights and privileges in one hundred-twelve acres of leased land adjoining it. He inherited one-fourth interest in the water operated Corn or Grist-mill. Subsequently he purchased the one-fourth interest in the mill held by his brother Josiah, and the one-fourth interest held by his brother Ephraim. On March 11, 1775, he conveyed his full interest in the Grist-mill to his brother Samuel.

21-HANNAH JACKSON

Born in Londongrove Twp., Chester Co., Penna. Married, 5-13-1762, Isaac Jackson, born in same Township, son of William and Katherine (Miller) Jackson.

Isaac Jackson lived on a farm in New Garden Township, bought for him by his father at the time of his marriage. He was a clock maker by trade. One of the first clocks made by him was a regulator without striking-attachments.

He lived near the Maryland line, and was frequently called upon when free negroes were captured on false pretenses. On such occasions he was involved in considerable personal danger, as the claimants were generally armed, vindictive, and very often desperate. His efforts in many cases were effective, and many secured their freedom. His home was, for many years, a refuge for those who were escaping from slavery. He labored, in conjunction with others, to induce the Yearly Meeting of Friends in Philadelphia to take steps for the emancipation of all slaves held by members of the Society. Isaac visited the owners of more than eleven hundred slaves, and most of them agreed to take measures for freeing their slaves.

They resided in New Garden Township, Chester Co., Penna., where all of their children were born.

25-SAMUEL JACKSON
(4,1)

Born in Londongrove Twp., Chester Co., Penna. Married, 11-21-1771, Rebecca Dixon, born in New Garden Twp., Chester Co., Penna., daughter of John and Rebecca (Cox) Dixon.

His father died in 1760, and willed to Samuel the 150-acre farm on which he resided and the historical brick mansion he had built in 1742 and all other buildings thereon, and one-fourth interest in his grist-mill. Samuel's mother died in 1767 and four years later, at twenty-one years of age, he came into possession of the property. Samuel acquired the three-fourths interest in the grist-mill held by his brother John, added to his operations a saw-mill, and carried on the business, being more successful than his father.

Samuel was an aggressive person with good judgment, always looking ahead for better opportunities, and conceived the idea it would be better to move westward. His father-in-law, John Dixon, who had lived in the same vicinity, left Chester County in 1770, settling on the Monongahelia River in Fayette Co., Virginia, (Now Penna.) near what was known as Redstone. This may have influenced Samuel to dispose of his property in Chester County. He found a buyer and on October 14, 1775, sold to Lewis Pusey and wife the homestead including the 150 acres of land and the grist and saw-mills, for the sum of 1,200 pounds.

Samuel moved to Fayette County in 1775. He acquired by deed dated May 22, 1777, from Jesse Martin of Westmoreland County, Penna., 300 acres of land situated at the mouth of Redstone Creek, for a consideration of 200 pounds. This land had been known as "Martin's Folly" now in Jefferson Twp., Fayette Co., Penna. He built a log-cabin at the mouth of Redstone and lived in it until 1785, when he built a substantial mansion and resided there until his death in 1818. The 300 acres of land acquired from Jesse Martin was originally owned by William Jacobs, who it is said had lived there as early as 1761. He was driven out by the Indians, but returned later and applied for a survey of his land, April 24, 1769. He then sold it to Prior Theobald and Lawrence Harrison on June 2, 1769. Harrison transferred his right to Theobald, July 10, 1769. On April 5, 1776, Theobald deeded the property to Jesse Martin. The land was patented by Samuel Jackson Feb. 7, 1789.

On September 1, 1781, Samuel Jackson requested certificates for themselves and children, Samuel, Jr., John, Nathan and Susanna, from New Garden Monthly Meeting to Hopewell, Va., (now Penna.) being the nearest Monthly Meeting from their residence. Rumors had reached the members at New Garden of Samuel's engagements in many enterprises and business-undertakings. They appointed a committee to visit him respecting his manner and motives. The committee found it to be satisfactory and the certificate was issued October 6, 1781.

Samuel Jackson was one of the most conspicuous figures in Fayette County's early history. He was a business man of large and liberal enterprises that made him famous in his day. As time progressed he expanded his business. He was a millwright and built near his home at the mouth of Redstone Creek a saw-mill, grist-mill and oil-mill. He engaged likewise to a considerable extent in the building of flat-boats. There was a lively demand from emigrants coming over the Burd's road to the river, who desired to move on to the lower country. The crafts were in size large enough to carry a family, their household goods and provisions. While his customers waited for the construction of their boat, Jackson furnished them with entertainment at his home for a week or so.

In addition to operating a large farm, mills, and other enterprises, he operated a General Store in Brownsville, Penna. He contracted for and built bridges. He bought and sold real estate. He was a director and stockholder in the Monongahela Bank in Brownsville. He owned stock in the Clarksville Manufacturing Company.

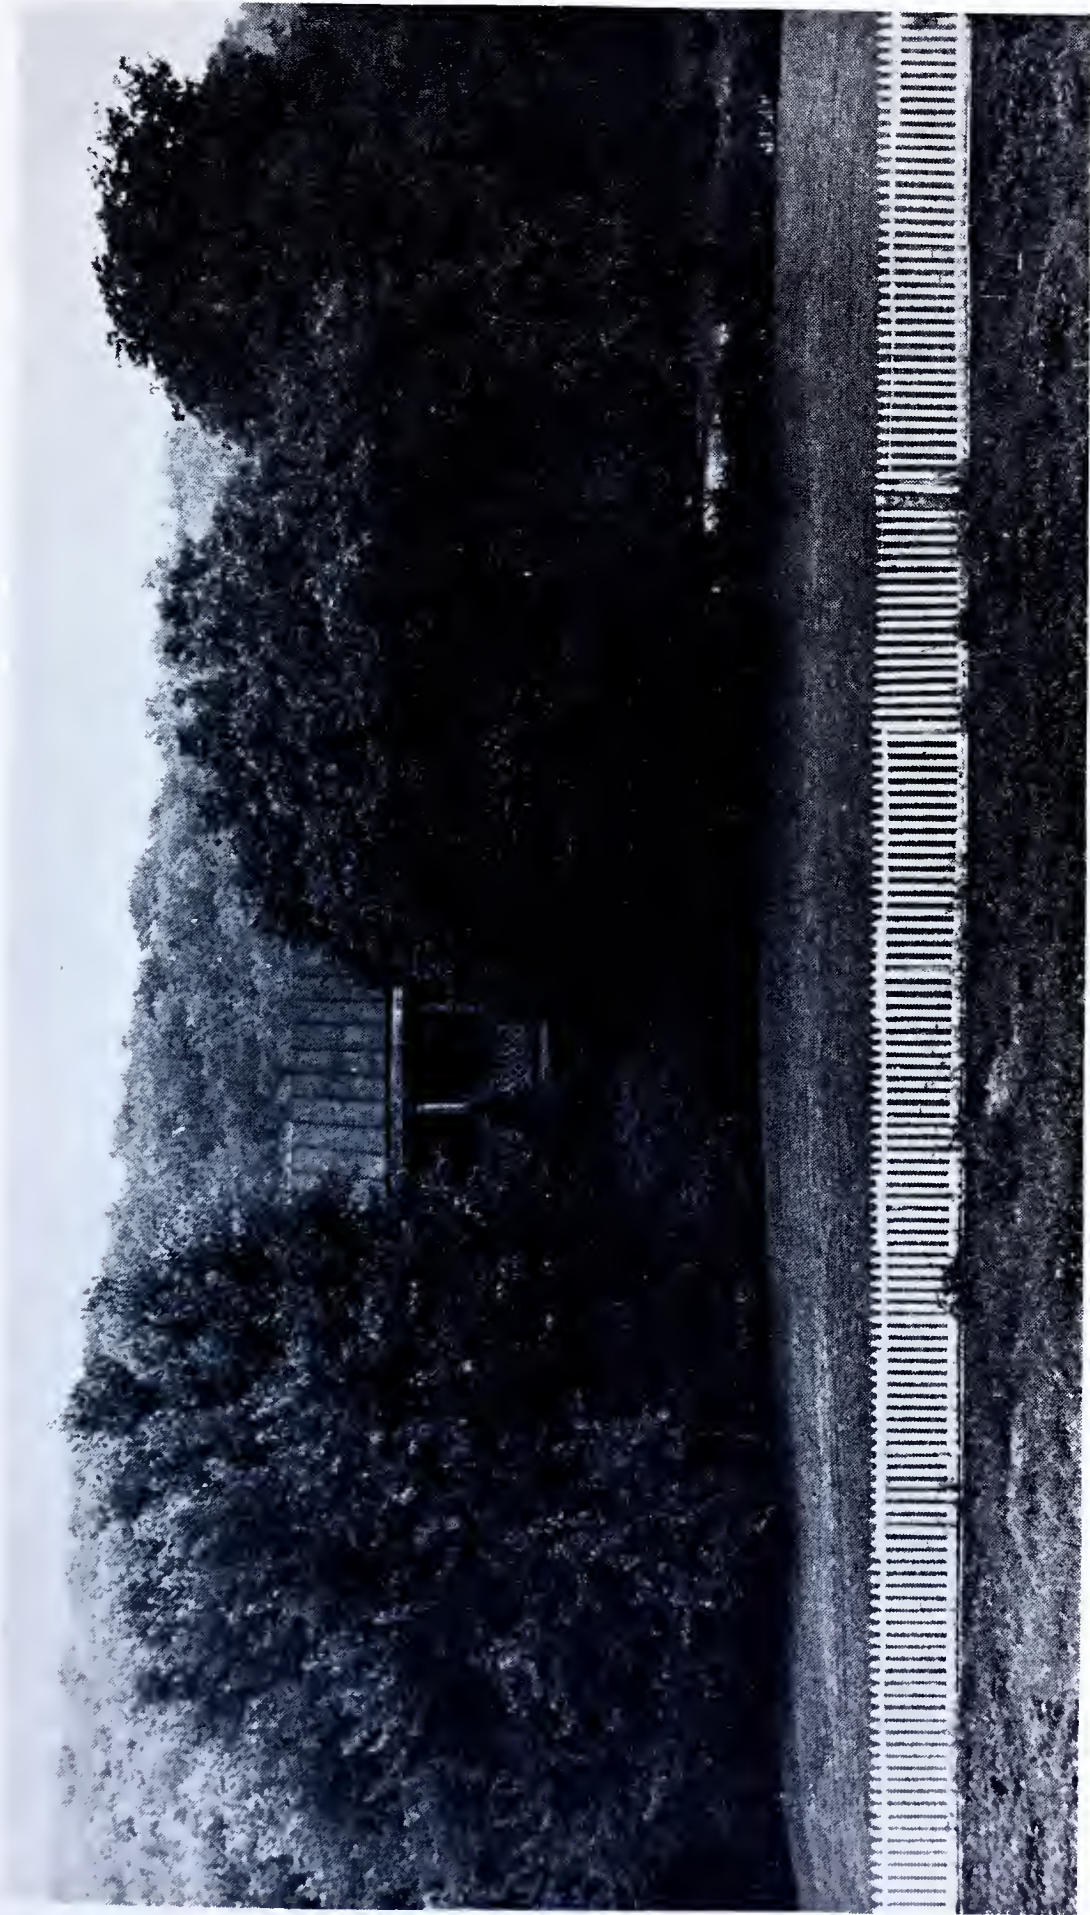

FIRST PAPER-MILL BUILT WEST OF THE ALLEGHENY MOUNTAINS

In 1791 Jonathan Sharpless, a blacksmith and general mechanic living in Chester County, Penna., made a visit to see relatives in Fayette County, who resided near Samuel Jackson. While there he became acquainted with Jackson and made frequent visits to see him. On one occasion they discussed the need of a paper-mill west of the Allegheny Mountains. This led to an agreement to build such a mill upon Redstone Creek, on land owned by Jackson.

It was estimated it would cost about $3,000.00 to build and supply the equipment for the plant. Sharpless returned home to raise $1,500.00, the same being his share or one-half of the capital necessary to start the proposed enterprise. He contacted another firm manufacturing paper in Chester County, to obtain some practical knowledge of the business before embarking on their new venture, for neither of them knew anything of the details of paper-manufacture. Sharpless found the work of raising $1,500.00 a slow process. However, within two years he had accumulated this amount, and in 1793 he set out with his family for the west, prepared to build the paper-mill.

The completion of the mill-building, tenement-houses for mill-hands, and a small grist-mill was not effected until 1796, in which year the mill was started and the first paper made.

In the Pittsburgh Gazette of June 24, 1797, appeared the following: "This paper is made in the Western country. It is with great pleasure we present to the public the Pittsburgh Gazette, printed on paper made by Messrs. Jackson & Sharpless on Redstone Creek, in Fayette County. Writing-paper, all kinds and qualities, as well as printing-paper, will be made at the mill. This is of great importance to the inhabitants of the country, not only because it will be cheaper than that which is brought across the mountains, but it will keep a large sum of money in the country which is yearly sent out for the article."

OLD IRON WORKS

Iron furnaces were busy in Monongalia County at early date. At Rock Forge, Samuel Hanway started work, 1798, and on Cheat River, Samuel Jackson built a furnace. The latter plant, under the Ellicotts, worked 1200 men.

When Sharpless found that upwards of $6,000.00 had been spent in the building of the paper-mill and attachments, instead of the $3,000.00 estimated cost, he was somewhat nervous over the great outlay and feared a profitless result, especially as Jackson had furnished the bulk of the capital and held everything in his name, although Sharpless was ostensibly a half-partner. The situation worried Sharpless, for not only all of his money but money belonging to his wife had been put into the affair without any writings to show that he had any claim whatever. Added to that was the information that Mr. Jackson was a sharp dealer and likely to ignore his partner's claims entirely, in view of the fact that there was no written evidence of them. But Mr. Jackson was the soul of honor in all his transactions with Sharpless, and in 1798 gave him a clear and unquestionable title to one-half of the business, the property, and the profits.

" The Iron Master of Cheat "

It was known that iron ore in quantities existed along the Cheat River, in the mountains, known as "Cheat Neck" in Monongalia County, near Morgantown, W.Va. (then Virginia). Samuel Jackson, one of the progressive business-men of his day, realized the need for and the scarcity of iron products, moved into the area, and commenced to do business. About 1800, he built a log-dam and mill on the flat just below the "Oaks," not far from the eastern end of the present Cheat River Bridge, at what was known as "Ice's Ferry." Samuel advertised as early as May 1804 that he would exchange bar-iron for cash, grain, or other country products.

James Gillespie conveyed to Samuel Jackson 40 acres of land, of which 38 acres was bottom-land. On April 6, 1809, John Ramsey sold to Samuel Jackson two tracts of land along Cheat River, for $4,000.00. One of these tracts of 388 acres Ramsey had patented in 1806. It was on the Gillespie tract of water-rights and shore-line that Jackson built his first forge, and made nails by hand.

It has been said that several tons of nails and pig-iron from Jackson's Iron Works were shipped by boat or dug-out canoe down the River to Pittsburgh, and up the Beaver River, then portaged across to Lake Erie, where it was used by Commodore Oliver Hazard Perry, the naval hero, in the construction of his squadron of small vessels. That squadron headed by the "Lawrence" and "Niagara" gave an excellent account of itself in the famous battle of Lake Erie, on September 15, 1813, when Commodore Perry sent the laconic message, "We have met the enemy and they are ours." There was a certain amount of iron used in the construction of the vessels and for the use of manufacturing the cannons and the cannon-balls, which were effective in winning the battle. Most of this iron had to be obtained from the few blast-furnaces west of the Allegheny Mountains. It is also said that iron from Jackson's Iron Works was shipped by boat down the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers for General Andrew Jackson, for use in making cannon-balls for his army in his great victory over the British on January 8, 1815, at New Orleans.

House built in 1785, described in Samuel Jackson's will as the " Mansion House "

It is a substantial eleven-room house built at the mouth of Redstone Creek, near Brownsville, Fayette Co., Penna. The foundation was constructed of stone quarried from his own land. The joists, framework and other wood-work are of oak lumber construction, all being hand-cut and taken from timber on his farm. The joists and framework are joined together with wood pegs. The only nails used in the construction of the home were hand-wrought nails used in the flooring. A round stoned-lined water-well, twenty-one feet in depth was dug by Samuel Jackson, and is still in use furnishing an abundant supply of water for the home.

After the death of Samuel Jackson in 1818, his wife continued to live in the house until her death (about 1820), at which time his daughter Rebecca inherited the "Mansion House," and certain lands bequeather to her as provided in Samuel's will. Rebecca married in 1823, Joseph Bailey, a widower with three sons. They lived in the mansion house until about 1844, when they moved to Greene Co., Penna., leaving the homestead and mill-property to Eli J. Bailey, Joseph's eldest son. He lived there until his death in 1897, leaving the homestead to his only son Joseph J. Bailey. Joseph died in 1939 and left the mansion house and other buildings, including 157 acres of land, to his great-grandson, Joseph Bailey Forsyth, the present (1960) owner, who has made considerable improvements in the home, but has retained most of the original interior construction.

Their Grandfather (the 4th Henry) married Elizabeth Titus, represented as a "beautiful Quakeress." They had seven children, one of whom, named Peter, was successfully employed in the manufacture of iron, and made the chain that was stretched across the North River in the Revolution.

In the autumn of 1785 William Jackson went to Redstone, Fayette Co., Pa. to visit his uncle Samuel Jackson. He remained there four years, engaged in the fulling of cloth and the manufacture of flour-the last two years in partnership with the proprietor of the mill, Rees Cadwallader. In 1789 he returned to New Garden, where he remained nearly a year. In 1793, he engaged in the manufacture of flour, with Micajah Crew as a partner, about twenty-five miles from Richmond, Va. 64--ALICE JACKSON
(21,4,1)

Born in New Garden Twp., Chester Co., Penna. Married, 5-9-1799, at New Garden Monthly Meeting, Enoch Lewis, son of Evan and Jane Lewis, of Radnor, Delaware County, Penna.

Alice was a lady of rare endowments, an admirable speaker, and a gifted minister. It was said of her by a literary critic; "Her fluency and command of language were extraordinary. I never knew her to utter a sentence, either in public speaking, or in social conversation, that I could mend."

A gentleman who knew her well once said of her; "she could not enter a retail store to buy a yard of tape, without leaving the impression that she was a superior woman. She had a fine face, the features being of a Grecian mould, and a tall and handsome form; and her carriage was queenly in dignity and self-command. She was universally admired for the grace of her person, and honored, loved and revered for the graces of her mind and the qualities of her heart. Her society was attractive alike to the old and the young, the grave and the gay, the witty and the wise: there was a genial glow in her conversation, a warmth and tenderness, that could not fail to interest even the dullest intellect, and to touch the coldest heart. In her large household, including the pupils of her husband's boarding-school, she was regarded as a mother, sister, friend, and confidential adviser, to whom every one might look when counsel, sympathy, or kindly care was needed, and in whose ready resources and tender appliances there were relief for every trouble, and balm for every wound. Judge Haines, who was one of those pupils, a short time before his decease, remarked of her " the love we scholars had for her amounted to enthusiasm. I never knew a woman whom I so delighted to please, and whom I so dreaded to offend. The fear of forfeiting her good opinion was an ever-present restraint upon me, and I believe every boy in the school felt more or less the same way."

They first resided at Westtown and later moved to New Garden, Chester County, Penna.

75-SAMUEL JACKSON, JR.

Born in Lodongrove Twp., Chester Co., Penna., 5-14-1773. The early history of Samuel is not fully disclosed. It appears from letters and other records that he worked with his father, engaged in many business ventures. The will of his father conveyed certain lands at the mouth of Redstone Creek to him and his brother John, on which they had started to build the Albany Glass-Plant. The plant was to be owned and operated by Samuel and his brother John, but soon thereafter John moved to Cincinnati, Ohio, to act as agency or jobber for his brother Josiah. As a result of this change of plans, the Albany Glass-Plant, upon completion, was operated by Samuel and his brother Jesse. The glass-plant made common window-pane glass. They employed about fifty men. They also built and operated a company store for the convenience of their employees and built for them a score or more of tenement-houses. The glass plant was operated by the two brothers for a number of years. The plant changed ownership many times before it was discontinued in 1865.

In 1836 Samuel and his brother Jesse and family left Fayette County, Penna., and settled near Ottawa, Ill., on the Fox River. Samuel went ahead of his brother and built a home for Jesse and family and had it ready for them to occupy when they arrived later in the spring of 1836. They operated a grist and saw-mill. Samuel was never married.

76-JOHN JACKSON

Born in Lodongrove Township, Chester Co., Penna. Married, 5-28-1800, at the Fallowfield Monthly Meeting, Anna Hough, born in Washington County, Penna., daughter of Amos and Elizabeth Hough.

John Jackson resided on the land of his father at the mouth of Redstone Creek for a number of years after his marriage. He worked for his father in many business enterprises. John and his brother Samuel Jr., were appointed Executors of his will. John inherited a part of his father's land at the mouth of Redstone Creek, also stock of the Monongahela Bank at Brownsville and stock in the Clarksville Manufacturing Company. In 1820 he moved to Cincinnati, Ohio, where he set up an office to serve as agent or jobber for his brother Josiah, and sold nails and iron products produced by the Jackson Iron Works on the Cheat River, near Morgantown, W. Va.

Born at the mouth of Redstone Creek, Fayette Co., Penna., 10-7-1776. A few scattered records are all the information found concerning Joseph Jackson. The minutes of the Redstone Monthly Meeting, April 7, 1806, disclose he had married, but date of marriage and name of wife were omitted. The deed books of Fayette County, Penna., show an assignment of lots by Samuel Jackson to Joseph Jackson which reads: "the whole of his interest in real property within the Borough of Brownsville. This was recorded and compared June 12, 1820."

Born at the mouth of Redstone Creek, Fayette Co., Penna., 3-11-1779. The lack of information indicates Nathaniel may have died in childhood. His name appeared on certificate of transfer of membership from New Garden Monthly Meeting to Hopewell, Va., (now Penna.) Oct, 6-1781. He was then two years old.

79-SUSANNAH JACKSON

(25,4,1)

Born at the mouth of Redstone Creek, Fayette Co., Penna. Married, ca-1803, James Updegraff.

James Updegraff was associated with his brother-in-law John Jackson in the operation of the old Pleasant Furnace on the Cheat River, near Morgantown, W. Va.

It appears he was associated with the Jacksons in other operations in the Cheat mining venture. This association led to a bitterly fought lawsuit.

81-JOSIAH JACKSON
(25,4,1)

Born at the mouth of Redstone Creek, Fayette Co., Penna. Morton's history of Preston County, W. Va.,

states "Josiah Jackson was a college graduate who practised medicine fifteen years at the mouth of Redstone in Fayette County, before going into the iron-smelting business at Ice's Ferry." The author was unable to learn the source of this information, however, he did have the opportunity to examine Josiah's books of account and other records kept by him, and found they conformed to good accounting-practice and methods, indicating he had received an education superior to that usually accorded in his day.

His father died in 1818, and under his will, Josiah and his sister Ruth Dixon, inherited all of their father's land and other improvements and properties in Monongalia County, W.Va., including the Jackson Iron Works, rolling-mill, grist-mill, saw-mill and sundry other improvements. A provision in the will required Josiah and his sister to pay to the Executors of the estate one thousand dollars per annum for eleven years. In 1824 his sister, Ruth Dixon, conveyed all her interest therein to her brother Josiah.

Josiah moved from Redstone, Fayette Co., Penna., to Ice's Ferry, on the Cheat River, Monongalia Co., W. Va., (then Virginia) about 1818, and took over the operation of the Jackson Iron Works. The properties were operated under his supervision until Feb. 25, 1830 when he rented the Iron Works to Lazier, Lamb & Bayard Co., and in 1832 to Leonard Lamb and William Gans & Co., and in 1835 Josiah again operated it for a short period.

In 1822, he put in a cutting-mill and made what was known as cut-nails. The nail industry until this time depended on hand-wrought nails which was slow and expensive. He got his pig-iron from the Davis or Pleasant Furnace, and bought considerable pig-iron from Spring Hill and other furnaces in near-by Pennsylvania. The installation of the first cutting-machine for the manufacture of nails in 1822 was an occasion for celebration. It was a great event in the local history and a procession marched through the town of Morgantown, making nails as it went along, and the red hot nails were dropped in the streets to be picked up later as souvenirs.

Josiah also cast some stoves and did a thriving business in sundry iron products. He continued in the iron business until 1836, enlarging the plant and doing a larger business than his father. In addition to his mining and smelting-plants, he had a grist-mill, saw-mill, the nail-mill, wagon-shops, a brick-yard and a large merchandise store. They were all located at or near the eastern end of Ice's Ferry or just below it near "The Oaks." During his ownership the works saw their most prosperous days. He employed not fewer than 1,200 men in his various operations, supporting a community of about 3,000 people, in close proximity to his plants. They had macadamized streets and a system of water-works which supplied water for the homes and plant-operations, which came from a reservoir in the mountains near-by. The dam or reservoir was made of logs and earth thrown across a small stream coming down from the mountains.

On April 1, 1836, Josiah Jackson conveyed by sale to John Tasse, Samuel Church, John Bissell, William Morrison and Leonard Lamb, for a consideration of $25,000.00, the Samuel Canby tract of land of 1000 acres which he had bought in 1818, along with 17 other tracts, aggregating well over 5,000 acres, the grist-mill, the nail-mill, splitting-mill, houses, Wind-grove Furnace and other properties.

After disposing of the Jackson Iron Works, Josiah continued to live on Cheat River at Water Forge, near his former operations. He operated a general Merchandise store at Water Forge for several years, before he retired and moved near Morgantown, W.Va., to a place known as Haney's hill into a home owned by his brother-in-law, John Roger Fleming. He died there at 79 years of age, and was buried in the Fleming Cemetery. After his death, his wife Verlinda, lived with her son Daniel at Kingwood, where she died and was buried in the Maplewood Cemetery, Kingwood, W.Va.

Josiah first married, ca 1809, Sarah (Sally) McCartney. Sarah died in 1834 and he then married, 8-23-1835, Verlinda Robey Fleming, daughter of William and Nancy (Donaldson) Fleming.

Verlinda Robey Fleming is a descendant of Archibald Fleming, who came to the United States from Scotland and settled in Delaware. Her grandfather is John Fleming, born in Sussex County, Delaware, 12-22-1761. He came to West Virginia and settled in Monongalia County. He married Mary Hamilton, daughter of William and Ruth Hamilton. Mary was born June 6, 1770. John Fleming was a soldier in the Revolutionary war, and was in the battle of Brandywine and other engagements.

83-JESSE JACKSON

Born at the mouth of Redstone Creek, Near Brownsville, Penna. Married, 4-20-1815, Elizabeth Sharpless, born at the same place, daughter of Jonathan Sharpless. Jonathan Sharpless died January 20, 1860, at the age of nineth-two.

At the death of his father, 1818, Jesse inherited and became the sole owner of the paper-mill business. Shortly thereafter his brother-in-law, Samuel Sharpless, became associated with him as partner in the firm. In 1822 he sold his interest in the paper-mill to William Sharpless and Job Harvey. Jesse then moved to the mouth of Redstone Creek to take charge of the mill operations at the old homestead.

In the spring of 1836, he moved from Fayette County, Penna., to Millford, Illinios, and took up his residence in a cabin built by his brother, Samuel Jackson, Jr., a bachelor, near the line between LaSalle and Kendall counties on the Fox River. A part of his farm lay in each county. He and his brother Samuel built a grist-mill and a saw-mill as soon as they could get the materials. About seventy-five men, some of them living many miles distant, volunteered to put in the dam across the Fox River for them. These mills furnished employment for many residents in this area. They soon established a successful and profitable business. Elizabeth died three years later, 1839, and it is believed that Jesse lived there the rest of his life.

Born at Nottingham, Chester Co., Penna. Married, 8-20-1829, Abigail Rakestraw, daughter of Thomas and Mary Rakestraw, of Bart Twp., Lancaster Co., Penna.

James' father, Josiah, died when he was twelve years of age. His mother being a woman of energy and perseverance took upon herself the task of operating the homestead, which at that time was encumbered with debt. She kept her boys at work, sending them to school only a few weeks in the winter season, and as they arrived at what she thought a suitable age, had them apprenticed to learn trades; however, this was against the wishes of James, who had strong inclination and desire to study law and follow the profession. He was overruled by his mother, and was sent to Dupont's Bank to learn the trade of a fuller or woolen manufacturer. After serving as an apprentice and remaining a short time as a journeyman, he returned home and bought a part of his mother's farm, and erected thereon a small factory, in which he carried on business for a few years. He sold his farm and factory and bought another farm, where he pursued the business of agriculture until 1841, when he moved to Bart Twp., Lancaster Co., Penna., where he again settled on a farm. For a number of years he carried on a business in the sale of lime; also improved his farm, erecting a number of farm buildings, In the year of 1872 he built for himself a new house where he lived until his death.

He was a recommended minister in the Society of Friends. He was one of the early abolitionists, and his door was always open to the fugitives, whom he would help on their way to freedom. In 1852 during the excitement attending the "Christianna Riot," he was indicted for high treason, although he was not on the ground during the fight, but went there after hearing the guns. Through the leniency of the Marshal

Anthony B. Roberts, he was never arrested, but his family suffered great annoyances, their house being twice searched, and they were aware that they had spies watching them.

At the age of 17, having determined on taking a regular collegiate course, he entered Albany Academy and prosecuted his mathematical and classical studies with his habitual industry, and with more than usual success. He took the lead in all his studies, and was generally regarded as a youth of high promise. In 1824, he graduated at the Academy, and immediately entered the Union College. In this class he was by common consent easily first in mathematics and chemistry, while in Greek and Latin he had few superiors. In 1826, he graduated with the first honors of the College, and was immediately appointed to tutorship in the institution, and in 1831 became Professor of mathematics. In 1835 they moved to Illinois and settled along the Fox River, Near Ottawa. William staked out a piece of land and acquired title to the claim. Most of his time was devoted to farming. However, he had studied medicine and had a limited practice in the community where he lived. William died at thirty-seven years of age, leaving seven children, the oldest being nine years of age. Two years later (1842) Rebecca married her second husband, Isaac L. Davis.

 (81,25,4,1)

Born at the mouth of Redstone Creek, Fayette County, Penna., 8-21-1814. The only information available concerning Samual Jackson was found in a letter written by Dr. William Gans, dated December 20, 1836, containing the following: "Samuel Jackson told me to give you his best respects and thanks for the compliment you sent him in your last. Samuel is working for his uncles in the mill. They have the best saw-mill I ever saw." Dr. Gans' letter was addressed to his sister. The Uncles mentioned in letter were Samuel Jr., and Jesse Jackson, who moved from Redstone, Fayette County, Penna., to Illinois and settled on the Fox River, Near Ottawa, Ill., in 1836.

210-JOSEPH MARTIN JACKSON
(81,25,4,1)

Born near Morgantown, W.Va., on Cheat River, in the section commonly known as "Cheat Neck," which then the scene of one of the most important iron ore operations in the country. His grandfather, Samuel Jackson known as the "Iron Master of Cheat, was the largest operator in this area. His grandfather died in 1818, after which the operations were carried on by his father, Josiah Jackson, who had inherited them.

Very little is known of the early life of Joseph Jackson, but since he was one of a large family it is believed he found it necessary to go to work at an early age. The most authentic information comes from his grandson Alonzo Jackson of Silver Hill, W.Va., now in his 80th year of age, who informed the author he had learned from his father that Joseph had mentioned on various occasions the type of work he had done on Cheat River and particularly he had been engaged in construction work. It is known that he was a skilled carpenter and had taught the trade to at least four of his sons.

He first married Thursa Callahan about 1846. They had one son, John Josiah. Thursa died shortly after the birth of their son. Two years later in the year 1849, he married Charlotte Banning of Silver Hill, W. Va., and lived there the rest of his life. In 1856 he purchased a farm consisting of 169 acres from Jacob Geho and wife Elizabeth for a consideration of $500.00. It was desirable land for farming with good soil and abundant water-supply for farm use. The land was not cleared and he had the task of cutting the trees and grubbing the smaller growth to make it suitable for growing crops. A portion of the old home and farm buildings can still be seen, but they are too deteriorated for any practical use.

Silver Hill did not have a public school in the early days, and it became apparent that if the children in this community were to obtain a common school education, it would be necessary for the citizens to provide their own school-building. Under the leadership of Joseph Jackson they constructed their own building. The site for the building was donated by Joseph Jackson, and it is certain he furnished the timbers taken from his own land for the first log school-house in Silver Hill.

MACEDONIA METHODIST CHURCH

Joseph M. Jackson was one of the leaders who undertook to build the Macedonia Methodist Church on Macedonia ridge. He furnished most, if not all of the timbers for the construction of the first log church-building in this community. He and his wife were active workers and leaders in the church. In our search for records of Joseph Jackson's family, we found stored away by the youngest daughter, Viola Jackson, a small Bible, the gift of her mother, which contained the following that is worthy of mention.

Miss Viola Jackson

Sept. 2, 1882

Viola, take this blessed book, gift of your mother's love.
If you follow its counsel,
keep its will, it will guide your soul above.

Joseph died February 27, 1885, at the age of sixty-six years, and is buried in the Macedonia Cemetery, adjacent to the Macedonia Church he helped to build, and where he served as a Bible-teacher and a strong leader in the church activities. He is buried in the "Jackson Row" without tombstone or marker to identify the place of the remains, although the loving hands of his children would have erected a memorial in his honor; this was the way he wanted it. He was always doing his part with diligence for the good of his community and serving to the best of his ability for the common benefit of all his neighbors.

225-DANIEL ROBINSON JACKSON
(81,25,4,1)

Born near Morgantown, W.Va. He operated a General merchandise and hardware store in Kingwood; however, he was a painter by trade and followed this occupation most of his life. He served one term as Sheriff of Preston County from January 1, 1889 to December 31, 1892. He was also United States Deputy Marshal.

Daniel ran away from home at the age of 16 and joined the Union Army. He was placed with Company 1 of the 14th West Virginia Volunteer Infantry. He was in the Battles of Cedar Creek and Cloyd Mountain. He was wounded in the Cloyd Mountain Battle and later was stricken with typhoid fever and given an honorable discharge.

During the term of Leroy Shaw, Sheriff of Preston County, a gang of outlaws, headed by the Smithley brothers from Pennsylvania, was seen in Preston County. The Sheriff deputized Daniel to help make the arrest. They found the Smithley gang a few miles out of Kingwood and the leader shot and wounded the Sheriff. Daniel opened fire on the outlaw, the bullet striking his horse as it reared on its hind legs killing it instantly and throwing the rider to the ground. Daniel single-handedly disarmed and captured the gang. They were taken to the Preston County jail, and later tried and convicted and given a prison term at the State penitentiary in Moundsville.

Married, 6-20-1876, Anna Wright. No children. During the greater part of his life, was engaged in teaching, chiefly in Pennsylvania, and at one time, was the principal of Pottsville Seminary. He was a profound mathematician, and it was said of him that "prominent among the traits of his youth was a fondness for study. Of quick intellect, retentive memory and diligent application, he ranked high as a scholar, though his modest and unassuming manner revealed to comparatively few the extent of his research or the sufficiency of his scholarship." Among the last testimonials to his worth, a contemporary, who knew him well, testified to his intelligence, affability, integrity and Christian character, that he was a good man, a person of honor and worthy of the love and confidence of those who knew him. In 1857 failing health led him westward; first to Minnesota, and later to Tama County, Iowa, where he finally settled. He died at his residence in Tama Co., Iowa.

John B. Phillips settled in St. Paul, Minn., in 1857, where he was a practising physician and also occupied an important post of trust and honor, being appointed on the "State Board of Examining Pension Surgeons," also filling the responsible position of "Commissioner of Statistics." In the pursuit of liberal education, he early exhibited an eager love of learning, both in literature and science, and more especially an enthusiastic and discriminating taste for music, and poetry and other kindred fine arts. In 1851 he entered the University of Pennsylvania and graduated in 1855. In the meantime he spent two years in Europe, studying in Heidelberg, Paris and Vienna. Dr. Phillips possessed qualities of high order, which with the geniality of his nature and comprehensive knowledge acquired through years of assiduous research won for him the confidence and unfeigned esteem of many friends. 397-HANNAH JACKSON(146,52,19,4,1)

Born at Kennett Square, Penn., where she received her education. She attended the Eaton Academy, from which she was graduated. Shortly after leaving the Academy she volunteered her services for the instruction of the colored children at Kennett Square, taught them for three years, and then became a teacher in a grammar school.

She was married, 11-29-1863, to Capt. Joseph D. Price, who was at the time of their marriage serving as Second Lieutenant of the 6th. Pennsylvania Cavalry. Captain Price served three years and three months in the Civil War. He was at Chattanooga, and with Sherman in the "March to the sea," and was detailed to exchange prisoners at the confederate prison at Andersonville, Georgia. He was once wounded but continued in active service until the end of the war. After the war he went to Kansas, where he engaged extensively in stock-raising. He was gored by one of his cows, causing his untimely death.

After her husband's death, Mrs. Price returned from Kansas, with her four small children, to Kennett Square, Penna., and taught school for a number of years. In 1878 she entered the Women's Medical College at Philadelphia, and graduated in the class of 1881. After her graduation she became assistant physician at the Women's Hospital, Philadelphia. In 1882 she moved to Chester, Penna., and in a short time had built up a successful practice. Member of the Upland Baptist Church.

Born in West Chester, Penna. Married, 5-22-1856, Wayne MacVeagh. Wayne graduated from Yale in 1853. He was Attorney-General of the United States in Garfield's cabinet. He was third cousin of Abraham Lincoln, and was with him on the train that carried them from Washington to Gettysburg where the president made his famous Gettysburg speech. The incident was published in Scribner's Magazine.

On this train were many government officials and politicians who created a great hubbub especially while the train was going through the tunnel in Baltimore. Being lighted only by crude oil-lamps, the interior of the train was thrown in deep gloom when it entered the tunnel, and the darkness and noise inspired Lincoln to tell one of his famous stories.

"This reminds me," said the President, according to MacVeagh's version of the incident, "of an old Negro who was riding a mule along a lonely road one night in a thunderstorm. With the lightning flashing and the thunder rolling, the mule stumbled and threw the rider headlong into a swamp. Pulling himself together, the old Negro prayed. "O Lord, if it would suit you quite as well, it would suit me a powerful sight better if we could have a little more light and a little less noise!"

492-JOHN JOSIAH JACKSON
(210,81,25,4,1)

His place of birth was not found in any of the records searched, but circumstances and other known factors indicate he was born at Ice's Ferry in "Cheat Neck," near Morgantown, W. Va. His mother died when he was an infant and her parents took him into their home to rear. He lived with them until he was a small lad. In 1849 his father married again and took up his residence at Silver Hill, W.Va. Rumors had reached his father that his child was not being properly cared for and he made a special trip to "Cheat Neck" to get his son, who was then taken into his father's home at Silver Hill and made a member of the family.

Married, 2-27-1868, Lydia Ann Cain, Born near Glen Easton, W.Va., daughter of John and Ann Elizabeth (Earlywine) Cain. They were married by Reverend Harrison Yoho; witnesses to the ceremony were John Sear and his wife, Martha Sear.

At an early age he started to work helping his father on the farm and also worked with him cutting and logging timbers. He learned to be a carpenter under his father and became skilled in the trade, however, he devoted most of his time to farming and timber work. In 1885, in company with his brother Orange, moved to Smithfield, W.Va., where they were engaged on a construction job. On completion of this work they settled on a farm in this vicinity and operated it in partnership. Later his brother decided to return to Silver Hill, but John remained at Smithfield and made it his permanent residence. He continued to follow the carpenter trade, built a number of residential houses in the town of Smithfield, but later devoted most of his time to farming.

His life was that of a devoted Christian. He was a student and teacher of the Bible and always conducted family prayers in his home. He was struck and fatally injured by a street car at Tiltonsville, Ohio, April 13, and died four days later, April 17, 1917.

962-ENOS PERRY JACKSON(492,210,81,25,4,1)

Born in Silver Hill, W.Va. Married, 7-23-1903, Annie Church, born at Littleton, W.Va.

When Perry was nine years old his parents moved to Smithfield, W.Va., where he spent the remainder of his life. The educational advantages where he lived were limited to a few months during the winter period. However, he consistently applied himself to his studies and made rapid progress in the grade school. After completing the elementary work he pursued his studies in preparation for the teaching profession. He received a State Teacher's certificate and taught for a number of years in the public schools. He was known for his methodical and accurate keeping of records including the birth-records of the students he had taught during his teaching-career. These records became useful more than forty years later, when former students needed proof of their birth to obtain birth certificates for Social Security benefits. He later gave up teaching and secured employment in a general merchandise store in Smithfield.

Perry initiated the Jackson-Cain family reunion and served as President from 1925 to 1942. His sympathetic nature, his warm heart and sincerity made him a favorite. Many glowing tributes have been paid to his memory. He was a gentlemen by instinct, a fine person of fascinating manners, a large heart, and a true and genial nature. He was a consistent and devoted Christian. He early identified himself with the St. James Methodist Church at Smithfield, and was a faithful worker and able leader in the affairs of the church.

Samuel Jackson was killed a few months after his marriage in the performance of a heroic and courageous deed to protect the lives of others. An account of his death appeared in a Wetzel County newspaper, as follows;- "Samuel Jackson, son of Orange Jackson of Silver Hill, was instantly killed Thursday afternoon, while on his way to the Grandison Lemaster farm when the drive-wheel on a tractor engine of the threshing-machine gave way and plunged down a steep embankment, going through a corn field striking a tree 18 inches in diameter before it finally stopped and the machine a complete wreck.

"Mr. Jackson and his brother, Alonzo, were on the Engine when it started down hill, the brother jumped and was unhurt, but in order to prevent the engine from tearing through the Lemaster home, Samuel courageously stayed at the throttle to turn it by and when he jumped he was caught in the machine.

"The Jackson brothers had been operating a thresher for a number of years and were well known throughout the neighborhood and all will be deeply grieved at his sad death. 999-EDITH PROTZMAN
 (503,220,81,25,4,1)

Born near Morgantown, W.Va. Married, 8-31-1918, Herbert McMillen, born at Masontown, W.Va., son of Alcinus Finton and Christy (Guseman) McMillen.

Edith graduated from high school in 1914, and attended summer school at West Virginia University, pursuing a course for a teaching career. She completed the necessary work required to enable her to pass the teacher's examination. After receiving her teacher's certificate she taught four years in the public schools of Monongalia and Marion counties. She was employed by the Morrison Department Store for eight years, 1936-1944 the last four years in the capacity of Department Supervisor and Assistant Buyer for the firm.

Edith has achieved considerable recognition through her ability and skill in making cute doll-babies and designing doll-costumes. The doll she designed is a creation of her own, and was first made for her grandchildren, but others saw it and wanted one like it, and soon she had an interesting and profitable hobby. She makes the complete doll and the design for each costume. The dolls are lovely creations that not only delight the child fortunate enough to receive one, but they also hold appeal for women, who use them for decorative pieces for vanity tables or beds. She has made hundreds of these dolls which have found their way into Alaska and most of the other states, and have been copied by Japan, the Netherlands and many of the countries throughout the world.

She became interested in our family history and offered her services which the author gratefully accepted. She gathered and assembled the records for at least sixty-five of the families appearing herein; spent much time in the search of county court records; supplied pictures, photostat copies of records and other valuable and pertinent data. She has in her possession the family Bible of Josiah Jackson containing the birth-records for his twenty-seven children and dates of deceased children; also one of his General ledgers of accounts containing entries of early records of the Jackson Iron Works.

She is a member of the Business and Professional Women's Club; Daughters of the American Revolution and Daughters of the American Colonist.

Mr. McMillen graduated from the West Liberty Normal School in 1910. He then taught one term in the public schools of Preston County, W.Va. In 1911 he entered West Virginia Universtiy, receiving his A.B. degree in 1916, and Master's degree in 1930.

He began his high school teaching career in 1915, at Morgantown High School as a physics teacher, but it was interrupted in 1918, when he decided to accept a position with the National Carbon Company, Niagara Falls, N.Y. After five years of industrial employment he began to look forward to returning to the classroom. In 1923, he learned there was an opening at the Morgantown High School, and he immediately resigned from the National Carbon Company to accept the position of chemistry teacher. He continued in this capacity until 1958, when he retired after forty-three years of continuous employment; thirty-nine of these years were spent in the school-room. He was a member of the Sigma Nu Fraternity. Mr. McMillen has been a member of the National Education Association and its various branches, and of the state and national Science Teachers Association. He was a sponsor for the National Honor Society of Morgantown High School for twenty-eight years. Both he and his wife are members of the Wesley Methodist Church. Res. She passed the teacher's examination and received her certificate to teach in the public schools. Due to sickness she was unable to pursue this work at first, however, after her recovery she did teach school for about three years, mostly filling vacancies created by the absence of other teachers.

When the author requested "Miss Huldah" to send information about herself, she was very modest and said she had never done anything of importance and there was not much to say. She did say she had never married and had found much happiness being with her parents and found great joy and satisfaction in her work as a Bible-teacher. She claimed this was about as constructive as anything she could do.

The author has known her for many years and of some of the things she has done. From 1925 to 1942 she served as Secretary of the Jackson-Cain family reunion. This was an annual affair held at Mannington, W.Va., which brought together the descendants of John Josiah and Lydia Ann (Cain) Jackson. The writer has carried on a lively correspondence with her for the past three years concerning our family history. She has contributed largely to his work with clues, leads and valuable materials not obtainable elsewhere.

She has been a member of the Church of Christ since she was a small girl. She has taken special courses to prepare herself for teaching the Bible. She has faithfully served as a Bible-teacher for 46 years, and has dedicated her entire life to this noble and worthy cause. Her Bible is her daily companion. She was never married. Res. (1960) 440 Wiley St., Fairmont, W.Va.

Citation and was awarded the Bronze Star Medal with letter "V" device for heroic achievement in connection with military operations against and armed enemy and given the following citation:-

"Corporal Theodore J. Curtis, Chemical Corps, United States Army. Corporal Curtis distinguished himself by heroism against an armed enemy in Korea. On 2 April 1952 while on duty with a forward observer party, he volunteered his services as radio operator on a hazardous mission to eliminate an enemy observation-post which was directing fire on friendly infantry troops in the area.

"To reach a vantage point from which he could locate and direct fire on the enemy, Corporal Curtis exposed himself to direct fire of an enemy sniper and intense hostile mortar-fire. Disregarding the personal hazards, he reached his objective and remained in position until effective counter-fire eliminated the enemy observation-post and neutralized the enemy mortar-emplacements. Corporal "Curtis" courageous and decisive action reflects great credit on himself and the military services." By command of Lieutenant General Palmer, and signed by Paul D. Adams, Brigadier-General.
